CENTURIES-OLD SPORT

Immerse yourself in a captivating blend of Japanese culture as Sumo + Sushi arrives in Miami this weekend. Renowned former Hawaiian sumo wrestler Konishiki will serve as the event's host, which offers an enticing fusion of the Japanese sport and delectable sushi. Prepare to witness a dozen exhilarating live matches throughout the weekend featuring esteemed wrestlers, including Sonayama, Dakikho, and Anonami. To deepen your understanding of this 1,500-year-old sport, there will be a live Q&A session with the competitors. 6 to 8 p.m. and 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday, at the Hangar at Regatta Harbour, 3385 Pan American Dr., Coconut Grove; sumosundushi.com. Tickets cost $95 to $400. SOPHIA MEDINA

▼ CORAL GABLES

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

GableStage culminates its season with a captivating production of Karen Zacarias' play, Native Gardens. An award-winning playwright, Zacarias brings her immense talent to the stage, having also imparted her knowledge as a professor at Georgetown University, and is recognized as the first-ever playwright-in-residence at Arena Stage in Washington, D.C. Native Gardens weaves a compelling narrative around two neighboring couples whose seemingly innocuous disagreement over a fence spirals into a full-fledged border dispute, exploring themes of conflict and unity. 8 p.m. Friday through July 16, at GableStage, 1200 Anastasia Ave., Coral Gables; 305-445-1119; gablestage.org. Tickets cost $50 to $70. JOSE D. DURAN
