IN NORTH MIAMI, THOUSANDS MARCH FOR HAITI

North Miami resident Gossaline Philippe, center, waves the Haitian flag as members of the South Florida Haitian community gather at North Miami High School, 890 NE Eighth St., at the start of the "Relief for Haiti March" on Sunday. The event, intended to bring greater awareness to the escalating gang violence and kidnappings in the Caribbean nation, was organized by Gregory Toussaint, senior pastor of Tabernacle of Glory Church in North Miami. The march, which ended at North Miami City Hall, 776 NE 125th St., was one of several planned in large cities across the United States on Sunday. See Story, 3A

In Dade race for elections supervisor, a divide over who won in 2020

While running for a Miami congressional seat last year, Ruth Swanson repeated Donald Trump's false claim that he won the 2020 election. Now Swanson, a Republican, is running to oversee all elections in Miami-Dade County as supervisor.

Swanson, an educator, was the subject of multiple videos last year when she answered questions from a TikTok personality conducting interviews at a Trump event.

Asked who won the 2020 election, Swanson answered "Trump" in the video.
